No Burials This Year.

Receiving Tobacco at Ewing.

W. T. Overby, who buys tobacco for a big Detroit firm, is now at Ewing, Ky., receiving 300,000 pounds of tobacco which he purchased in Fleming county. Mr. Overby has discontinued buying tobacco at Cincinnati and now regularly visits the warehouse sales at Lexington.

What Are We To Do?

The Kansas City Times has got things sized up about right when it says:

"Editing a newspaper is a nice thing. If we publish jokes, people say we are rattle-brained. If we don't we are fossils. If we publish original matter they say we don't give them enough selections. If we give them selections, they say we are too lazy to write."

"If we don't go to church we are heathens. If we do go we are hypocrites. If we remain at the office, we ought to be out looking for news items. If we go out we should be in attending to our business. If we wear old clothes they laugh at us. If we wear good ones they say we have a pull."

"Now what are we to do?"

Mike Doyle Dies Suddenly.

Mr. M. J. Doyle, aged 39 years, died suddenly in his room at St. Charles Hotel, Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock, of hemorrhage of the lungs. Mr. Doyle in September last gave up the management of the St. Charles Hotel on account of his failing health. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Julia Doyle, and two brothers, Edward and Cornelius, and two sisters, Mrs. John Loneragan, of Cincinnati, and Miss Julia Doyle, of this city.

Mike Doyle was a quiet, clever and unassuming young man, and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him.

The funeral services were held at the Catholic Church yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Father James Cusack.

Two Paris Boys Selected to Make Expert Examination.

The sensational death at Louisville of Kate Bryant, a very popular young lady of Buffalo, Ky., who it is alleged died as the result of an operation performed by Dr. Sarah A. Murphy, of the Falls City, is attracting almost as much attention as the celebrated Pearl Bryan case did at Cincinnati several years ago. Dr. Murphy is under arrest and proclaims her innocence.

The coroner of Louisville Dr. Kelly, contends that the girl's death was due to natural causes. This did not satisfy the Chief of Police and County Attorney and they employed three of Louisville's most prominent surgeons to make a thorough microscopical examination, two of these surgeons being old Paris boys, Drs. Louis Frank and Llewellyn Spears. The former is the son of Mr. L. Frank and the latter a son of the late Mr. Henry Spears.

Confederate Veteran Dead.

Marion M. Burch died at his home in Woodford county Wednesday night. Capt. Burch was one of the best-known and most beloved citizens of Woodford county. He was a Confederate soldier, having served in the Ninth Kentucky Cavalry commanded by Col. Breckinridge, between whom and Capt. Burch there was the most devoted friendship up to Col. Breckinridge's death two years ago.

Hard Water.

A farm woman in Pennsylvania once said to me, "I never hear any one sing 'The Old Oaken Bucket' without a shudder." For fifteen years she had done the cooking and washing for a family of six with no other water supply than what she had hauled out of a well nearly thirty feet deep by means of a bucket. Baths in winter were almost out of the question, and even in the summer they were regarded as an occasion of more than ordinary importance, for which preparations had to be made hours ahead of the great event. A cubic foot of water weighs sixty-two and a half pounds, and in all these years the number of tons this woman had lifted had made poetical allusions to "iron bound" and "moss covered" buckets a good deal like saying "rope" to a man about to be hanged.—Farming.

Johnson on Actors.

Although he wrote plays, Johnson claimed not to be fond of players. When Boswell suggested that we might respect a great actor Johnson cried: "What, sir, a fellow who claps a hump on his back and a bump on his legs and cries, 'I am Richard III?' Nay, sir; a ballad singer is a higher man." No doubt Boswell had Garrick in mind when, after hearing Johnson say that he looked on players as no better than dancing dogs, he timidly suggested, "But, sir, you will allow that some players are better than others." "Yes, sir, as some dogs dance better than others."

A Black Mast.

Most trading steamers which wish to study economy and effect have their aft mast painted black. If they did not the mast would soon be sullied by smoke and would look very dirty in consequence. The smoke from the vessel's funnel is carried backward by the forward motion of the vessel, and the mast would look grimy if it was painted any other color than black.

Let Him Right In.

A minister, addressing a meeting of the London Bible society, of which the Marquis of Anglesey was president, said that St. Peter refused to admit the marquis as a peer or as Wellington's old officer or lord lieutenant of Ireland or the leader of the Horse guards at Waterloo, but let him right in, as soon as he knew that he was president of the Bible society.

Be First in Attack.

An old Scotch drillmaster, so the story goes, taught his pupils the art of thrusting with the saber until they were quite proficient.

"Now teach us to parry," said they. "Oh," said he, "you must do the thrusting and let your enemy do the parrying."

If a chameleon becomes blind it no longer changes color, but remains of a blackish hue.

Spanish Politeness.

It has been said that the French are the most polite people in the world, writes our lady correspondent in San Sebastian, but I do not think any one who really knows them will agree. However, they have some charming little ways, and when they are rude it is because they are deep down thoroughly selfish. My personal opinion is that the Spaniard is about the most delightfully polite person one can possibly encounter. If you ask your way in the street of some ordinary woman, she will almost certainly go out of her way to accompany you down the street and to carefully put you on the right road. They are very cheerful and gay, but they are never vulgar, as we understand the word in England. Even the men in the streets who stand and frankly stare at a pretty girl do it in a light hearted, pleasant way which does not give offense. As to the manners of Spanish men belonging to the best society, they are almost perfect. Watch a Spaniard of distinction address his mother or any elderly lady and you will see a manner which is tender and caressing and at the same time exquisitely protective.—London Tribune.

An Unexpected Owner.

Nearly all the giddy youth of the neighborhood attended the charity bazaar, and one by one they drifted to a stall where a tiny, shapely, scented gray kid glove reposed on a satin cushion. Attached to the cushion was a notice written in a delicate feminine hand, which ran, "The owner of this glove will, at 7:30 this evening, be pleased to kiss any person who purchases a sixpenny ticket beforehand."

Tickets were purchased by the score, and at 7:30 a long row of sheepish, not to say doggish, young bloods were assembled outside the stall.

Then, punctual to the moment, old Tom Porson, the local pork butcher, who weighs twenty stone and is almost as beautiful as a side of bacon, stepped to the front of the stall.

"Now, young gents," he said in his best "buy, buy, buy," tones, "this 'ere glove belongs to me. I bought it this morning. Now I'm ready for you. Come on. Don't be bashful. One at a time!"

But nobody came on.—London Telegraph.

Her Opportunity.

Wife—I had better take that hat for 45 shillings. Husband—But I've only got £2 with me now. I'll have to owe them the odd 5 shillings. Wife—Oh, then, I'll take this one for 3 guineas. Five shillings is too insignificant a sum to owe.

What Saved Him.

Miss Oppen—I will never marry you. Denkeisen—Oh, heavens, I would blow my brains out if we were not in the midst of the busy season and I have so much to do!—Fliegende Blätter

Little Economics.

"I once made up my mind," said a London man, "that I would become the possessor of a good gold watch. I saved up the money for it in this way: When I felt like eating a shilling luncheon, as I often did, I kept it down to temperance. I put the twopenny saved toward my watch fund. You will hardly believe me, but with little economies like this I had in less than six months saved enough to buy my gold watch." "But," said a listener, "where is your gold watch? You are wearing a poor little gun metal thing." "Well," was the reply, "when I found how easily I could get along without shilling luncheons I concluded I could get along with a ten shilling watch instead of a ten pound one. So that the watch fund grew until it purchased for me my own house."—London Mail.

Duststorms That Bury Forests.

Travelers in Tibet describe the wonderful storms of dust that occur in Kashgaria, near the foot of the Kuen-Lun mountains. The dust in the air is sometimes so dense that complete darkness prevails. Occasionally rain falls during such a storm, but the raindrops evaporate during their descent, and the dust carried with them falls in lumps. Entire forests of poplar trees are buried in dust hillocks forty feet high. These deposits of dust are afterward moved on by the wind, but the trees that have been buried die, even after their disinterment.

Lincoln and His Beard.

It was a child who persuaded Abraham Lincoln to wear a beard. Up to the time he was nominated for president he had always been smooth shaven. A little girl living in Chautauqua county, N. Y., who greatly admired him, made up her mind that he would look better if he wore whiskers and with youthful directness wrote and told him so. He answered her by return mail:

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19, 1859.
Miss Grace Redell:
My Dear Little Miss—Your very agreeable letter of the 15th is received. I regret the necessity of saying I have no daughter. I have three sons—one seventeen, one nine and one seven years of age. They, with their mother, constitute my whole family. As to the whiskers, never having worn any, do you not think people would call it a piece of silly affectation if I were to begin it now? Your very sincere well-wisher,
A. LINCOLN.

Evidently on second thought he decided to follow her advice. On his way to Washington his train stopped at the town where she lived. He asked if she were in the crowd gathered at the station to meet him. Of course she was, and willing hands forced a way for her through the mass of people. When she reached the car Mr. Lincoln stepped from the train, kissed her and showed her that he had taken her advice.—St. Nicholas.

He that helps the evil hurts the good.—Socrates.

Whose Say-so is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M.D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M.D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M.D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Grover Coe of New York; Dr. Bartholow of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa., and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prostration, nervousness and retroversion and corrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind, it is not a patent nor even a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician, of large experience in the cure of women's peculiar ailments, who frankly and confidently takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for women's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and women's confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to preserve health and beauty is told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only; in cloth binding 31 stamps.

The Arabs' Hashish.

"Intoxication from eating a dish of liver was once my portion," said an orientalist. "It happened in the Sahara. I was spending the winter at El Kantara. In February I made a caravan trip over the desert along the great caravan route that runs from Biskra to Timbuktu. The third day out we reached an oasis of date palms. We got coffee at the baked mud cafe. We dined on red fish and gazelle steak, and for an entree was served this infernal liver. It was liver powdered with kiff. Kiff is hashish. It is made of hemp, and it makes you drunk. The Arabs mix it with their tobacco, and they bread liver with it, and they drop it in coffee. Thus they eat, drink and smoke their kiff. I ate their kiff and imagined my arm to be a mile long. I thought my foot as big as a mountain. My voice, when I spoke, sounded in my ears like the roar of a thousand thunders. In a word, I was kiff drunk, and it was two days before I was fit to resume my journey across the gold colored sands."

The Unprotected Farmer.

The revised figures of the Agricultural Department of the total crop of Winter and Spring wheat and its farm value December 1 have just been issued. These figures show that the price of Winter wheat was 67 cents a bushel and the price of Spring wheat was 60 cents. The average price of farm Spring wheat is lower than the farm price of Winter wheat because the crop is raised further from ports of export than the Winter wheat is and therefore the freight charges to the ports of export cost more. Farmers whose chief reliance is on their wheat crop should take notice that the bogus tariff protection of 25 cents a bushel that the Republicans have fooled them with for the past ten years since the passage of the Dingley bill in 1897, has entirely failed to force up the price of wheat, to the same average increased price of other commodities. Nor have the growers of corn or oats and other cereals participated in the advance in prices, though the producers of all these farm products are claimed by the Republicans to be protected by the tariff. It would be just as sensible to pretend to protect the cotton grower, two-thirds of whose products are exported, so cotton is on the free list.

Bradstreet's index figures for December 1, 1906, shows that the average increase in the price of all commodities since 1896 is 55 per cent., but the farm price of wheat is nine cents a bushel lower now than it was in 1896, according to the figures reported by the Agricultural Department, published in the United States Statistical Abstract for 1905 in page 516. As the price of farm land and the increase cost of living and labor on the farm, as in the cities, must make the cost of raising wheat, corn, oats and other cereals approach 55 per cent. more than in 1896, the farmer who raises those products is evidently not protected by the tariff as the producers of other products are protected, for while wheat is now lower in price, the average price of the products of the tariff protected trusts is much higher.

This low price of wheat entirely demolishes the chief claim of the stand-patters that the trust protecting tariff also protects the farmer by giving him a home market at increased prices for his products. On those products of the farm, such as milk, butter, eggs and vegetables that are not exported, the increased demand caused by the growth of cities, chiefly caused by the enormous immigration, has advanced prices to a par with other commodities, but what we produce a surplus of must be exported and the price is fixed in the market of the world, according to the supply and demand.

The wheat farmers have patiently waited for relief from the plundering of the tariff protected trusts, but have not received any alleviation, and are still confronted with the determination of the Republican leaders to refuse to revise the tariff. In some Congressional districts, notably in Iowa and Minnesota, many Republican farmers refused to support the stand-pat candidates and as the eyes of more are opened to the enormity of protecting a comparatively few special interests—the trusts—at the expense of the much greater number of farmers and in fact all consumers there will be more independent voting at future elections.

Probing the Railroads.

The Federal government through the Interstate Commerce Commission, has been probing the railroads for nearly ten years. The net results of investigation have been the dissolution of the Northern Securities merger, and enactment of laws to prevent rebating. The commission is still at work; it is now engaged in endeavoring to uncover the means and methods by which E. H. Harriman has united western roads, thereby stifling competition. The commission is encountering obstacles to surmount which will require considerable effort and time.

In the case of the Harriman roads, the Federal government is practically defied by its own creatures; and not only has it created them but has given them the power to defy. It is stated by an authority, that prior to June 30, 1880, the government had given to railroads 260,000,000 acres of land; and this land now constitutes their principal value. This being so, it is easy to be seen how the railroad are able, with so great wealth at their command, to obstruct any attempt to compel them to observe the purposes of construction intended by the government. The growth of population, the resulting increase in commerce, has enhanced the value of their holdings till they can dictate even, to the government that created them.

The tables have become so completely turned that the government can be probed by the railroads, much easier than the railroads by the Government. What makes the situation all the more exasperating, the land given by the government really belonged to the people—three acres to every man, woman and child of our population. The wealth that gives the railroads their power, belonged to the people who are now the victims of their combinations and schemes. It may be necessary for the people to recover what was once theirs, break the land monopoly, and place the Federal government again in a position to regulate railroads in the interest of the public.

A Disgrace to Kentucky.

The farce of a trial of Judge James Hargis, charged with murder, at Jackson, that was stopped by the Court of Appeals, is one of the most disgraceful things that ever transpired in Kentucky.

The appointment of one Wm. Carnes, of Williamstown, a lawyer never heard of outside of Grant county, by Governor Beckham, shows conclusively that the Governor knew his man and through him his political debts due Hargis and his gang of assassins would all be wiped out if the said Carnes should be allowed to try their cases. Thank God though there was a way to stop the infamy that Carnes had started to heap upon this grand old Commonwealth.

Will this great running sore on the good name of Kentucky never be healed, or will it be allowed to continue to run until the whole State is permeated with it? Shall we keep our mouths closed because Jim Hargis is a Democrat and Governor Beckham is a Democrat, and wink at such disgraceful proceedings? In fact, be blind for the time being until our Governor pays Hargis for the thievery he has done for him in elections? Some of you Democrats who believe in the Beckham and Hargis methods can keep mum, we consider ourselves too good a Democrat to endorse assassins.

Every Democratic paper and politician in Kentucky, this paper included, has been howling for several years about the Republican party endorsing the assassination of the lamented Goebel, now by your silence you are endorsing the same thing in the Democratic ranks. You let politicians make you believe that you are furnishing Republican campaign matter, which is rot of the worst kind. There is no better Democrat on earth than the editor of the News, who never scratched a ticket and never intend to, but at the same time he intends to point out the rank defects in his party and urge that they be corrected in the Democratic party. Is not this better than to have disgusted Democrats join with the Republicans to teach the Democratic party the error of its way. We think so, and for the sake of the true principles of Democracy we will fight it out on this line to the end. Listen to politicians who care only for self interests, and you will become dead to everything that is manly or honorable.

The first thing that the next Democratic Legislature should do is to repeal the law giving the Governor power to appoint special judges. This we believe will be for the good of Democracy, for it will show that the party does not endorse this one man power in Kentucky. The evil of this law has been realized to the fullest extent in the appointment by Governor Beckham of the man Carnes, of Grant county.

If the country press of Kentucky would do its duty and not be controlled by a few petty politicians the Democratic party would never be in danger in our State, but when you sit silently and let such proceedings go by as this last Breathitt county affair and to have all the odium of it put on the Democratic party it is high time to give the warning, for we can see the "hand-writing on the wall."

We love our party better than any one or any set of men in it, and this article is only meant for the best interests of Democracy in Kentucky.

Maybe we have been too outspoken for some of our Democratic friends but there are times that even an editor's conscience needs a little airing and he feels it his duty to speak out in meeting, and to speak the truth too.

The Charming Woman

Is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, clean smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric bitters restore weak women, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. Guaranteed at Oberdorfer's, the druggist. 50c.

Of Two Evils

"What can be more aggravating than having a jealous husband?"
"Having one that isn't, my dear!"--Philadelphia Press.

A Beheading Stone.

The old beheading stone at Stirling, England, was protected in 1887 by public subscription, raised at the instance of the Stirling Natural History and Archaeological society. It was then inclosed in an iron cage. There is another relic of public execution in Stirling in the museum of the Smith Institute in that city. It is the bowl which the public executioner used when he went around the market taking a measure of meal from every farmer's sack.

Impossible Diagnosis.

"The boy has evidently been eating too much between meals," said the doctor.
"Nonsense!" replied the boy's father.
"A boy can't eat in his sleep."
"How do you mean?"
"I mean that each of his meals begins when he gets up in the morning and ends when he goes to bed."--Philadelphia Ledger.

Happy Days.

However varied the courses of our life, whatsoever the phase of pleasure and ambition through which it has swept along, still, when in memory we would revive the times that were comparatively the happiest, these times will be found to have been the calmest.--Bulwer Lytton.

Giving and Receiving.

Hall Porter (to person soliciting a favor at a ministry)--The minister receives from 10 o'clock to midday--
"All right," says the other, "but at what hour does he give?"--Paris Figaro.

Low and Loud.

Dangers of

Defective Plumbing

Defective plumbing permits the entrance into the house of sewer gas bearing germs of contagious disease to which the human system readily succumbs. Sewer gas is not necessarily generated in the sewer, but is frequently created in the plumbing system within the home and enters the apartments through defective fixtures. If in doubt consult us regarding the piping and repairing defective fixtures with "STANDARD" Porcelain Enamelled Ware, acknowledged as the best sanitary equipment.

Needle Goes Through Man's Head

It took a needle 40 years to work its way through the head of F. A. Skaggs of Bonnierville, Ky. He swallowed it when he was only ten years of age. For a time it stuck in his throat. Then it worked its way through his head, giving him trouble for many years. A few days ago Skaggs' hat caught on a mysterious point when he tried to take off his hat. Investigation disclosed the needle, which was withdrawn from his scalp with pincers.

Big Bunch of Indictments.

The grand jury of Hancock county, Ohio, which has been sitting at Findley, O., brought in 939 indictments Tuesday afternoon against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Ohio Oil Company, the Solar Refining Company, the Buckeye Pipe Line Company, the Manhattan Oil Company, the Standard Oil Company, of Ohio, John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller, Henry H. Rogers, John D. Archbold, Wesley H. Tilford, Frank Q. Barstow and F. T. Cuthbert.

The indictments are probably the broadest of any of the cases now being brought against the Standard, and take in the leading subsidiaries of the company and their officers. The fines and costs involved exceed $60,000,000, which, if collected, will make Hancock county exceedingly wealthy.

Take Notice.

We call your special attention to Rummans, Tucker & Co.'s advertisement in this issue—go see them, you can find the goods you want at special low prices.

Taxable Property.

Warehouse receipts are taxable property, the situs being the domicile of the owner, under a decision handed down by the Court of Appeals in a case appealed from Jefferson county. ## The Flood of '84 Almost Equalled

With the tributaries of the Ohio pouring floods into it at all points south of Pittsburg, and the danger line reached in many places it is predicted that the river will equal the flood of 1884. The Ohio passed the danger line at Cincinnati, flooding the Grand Central station, the use of which has been discontinued. Rivers and creeks in Kentucky are all raging and great damage has been done. Many towns on smaller rivers are threatened with inundation and families are moving all their goods. Rain in general throughout the Ohio valley.

Our housekeepers say Spears & Sons' Red Cross Flour has no equal. Sold by all grocers.

RELIGIOUS.

—Rev. F. W. Eberhardt, of Liberty, Mo., who accepted a call to the pastoral care of the Georgetown Baptist Church, has given notice that he will not come. He wrote that his church people at Liberty had brought such a pressure to bear upon him that he could not withstand it.

—Rev. Geo. W. Clarke, who has been assisting in a meeting at Jackson, Ky., this week, will fill his pulpit at the Baptist Church, in this city, Sunday.

—Elder Carey E. Morgan will fill his pulpit, as usual at the Christian Church Sunday. Morning subject, "A Great Case in Court, Today vs. Tomorrow." Evening subject, second sermon on "A Man and His Home."

—Rev. Joseph S. Malone, the pastor, will preach at both services at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Morning subject, "Patience;" evening, "Joy."

Negro Fined For Larceny.

On latter charge he will be tried before Judge Hinton as soon as the thirty days is served out.

—Miss Margaret Ewalt left yesterday afternoon for New York, where she has secured a position as forelady in the fashion department of one of the largest millinery establishments in the metropolis. The fact that Miss Ewalt was given the position over a large number of applicants, speaks well for her artistic ability.

—Rev. John Burdin, pastor of the Baptist Church at Forks of Elkhorn, was in the city Wednesday. Mr. Burdin was a blacksmith in Paris 35 years ago, and says he finds but few familiar faces here. He has been preaching for twenty years. When residing in Paris he was known by everybody as "Slick" Burdin, and was very popular with the boys.

Marvelous Feat of a Surgeon.

Surgical science, as applied to anaesthetics, may be revolutionized as the result of four wonderful operations performed by Dr. Hal W. Foster, of Kansas City, discover of a new local anaesthetic, assisted by Dr. John Young Brown of St. Louis, at the City Hospital in St. Louis.

Dr. Foster successfully operated on four patients, who were perfectly conscious every moment they were under the knife. The Kansas City wizard drove all feeling from the vicinity of that part of the body where he proposed to operate with his discovery.

Although undergoing dangerous and painful operations, the patients talked throughout the ordeal without any suffering or discomfort whatever.

Many famous St. Louis surgeons stood around the operating table and marveled while Dr. Foster operated on a man for strangulated hernia. Doctors dread this operation because it is both difficult and dangerous.

The patient watched the cutting process closely. He chatted as pleasantly and was as free from pain as if the surgeon had a guinea pig under the knife instead of his own body.

The surgeons congratulated Dr. Foster at the conclusion of his marvelous feat and predicted that the anaesthetic will bring him world-wide fame.

The dangers of administering chloroform and ether will be done away with if the new anaesthetic is a success. Persons with a weak heart and other constitutional weaknesses can go under the knife without fear.

Bourbon Creeks On Rampage.

The rains of past few days have put Stoner and Houston creeks on a rampage that nearly equals the flood of April 14th, 1884. In fact, every stream in the county has been out of its banks and doing immense damage to fencing, crops and residences in many localities.

The waters of Stoner was at the highest mark Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock, only lacking 18 inches of reaching the mark of the rise in 1884. W. O. Butler, of near town, lives on about four acres of hemp to wash away. It was in a field near the riotous bridge on Georgetown pike.

The raging waters also carried away about $1,500 worth of hemp for Chas. S. Brent Bro., which was in a field on Strode's Creek.

Dora Scott, the mail carrier, who resides on Lileston avenue, awoke Tuesday morning to find his wagon had floated down stream and was lodged against a tree, while his horse tied in its stall was standing in five feet of water. Mr. Scott was compelled to wade the water in order to reach the horse and rescue him from drowning.

The Griffith branch, which flows through the negro town of Claysville, became a raging creek that flooded many houses. The negro town of Ruckerville that lies upon the bank of Houston creek suffered severely from back waters, a number of residences being flooded.

The rural route service came near being put out of commission on account of impassable streams, washouts and inundated bridges. Of the eight routes out of Paris partial deliveries only were made on routes 2, 6 and 7.

Frankfort Officer Kills His Assistant.

Policeman William Hayden, of Frankfort, shot and instantly killed James Sudduth in that city late Wednesday night after the latter had fired point blank at him with a shotgun. The load of buckshot passed within two inches of the officer's head. Sudduth was noisily drunk and was disturbing some young ladies who sought the officer's protection. He was taken home and told to go to bed.

Hayden was leaving when Sudduth, grabbing up a shotgun from under the bed, followed him out and blazed away at the patrolman from the stairs. Hayden turned quickly and fired three times with his revolver before Sudduth could let go the other barrel. Sudduth had been in the penitentiary once and was accounted a bad man.

Ex-Parisian Meets With Accident.

W. H. Polk, of the Lexington Herald staff, well-known in this city his former home, came near having a serious accident befall him Wednesday evening. When leaving his home in that city he stepped near a street car track to signal a car to stop for him when the fender of the car caught him on the shin and knocked him a double back somersault, landing him in a puddle of mud. He regained his feet and when satisfied no bones were broken, proceeded on his way to his office. We are truly glad the "old man" was not seriously hurt, for you would have to travel a long ways to find a cleverer fellow than Uncle Billy Polk. When we say "clever" we mean it in every sense of the word. We knew him in our childhood and he must now be near on to a hundred years old, and may he live to be two hundred is our sincerest wish.

"The Woman in the Case."

In "The Woman in the Case" which Eugenia Blair is to present at the Grand next Tuesday night, the prolific author Mr. Clyde Fitch demonstrates very conclusively, says the New York Times, that his powers instead of being around the operating table, are approaching a maturity which may mean ere long an even still more gratifying achievement. In avoiding the clap trap sensationalism in this newest play Mr. Fitch has revealed much ingenuity. If handling along such lines as its story might suggest "The Woman in the Case" could not possibly have resulted in anything other than a melodrama of the most pronounced type. In the best scene of the play Mr. Fitch has wisely ignored tradition and the result is a quivering slice of real life truthfully effective. The play provides Eugenia Blair with opportunities for the best acting she has up to now contributed to our stage, and her efforts are brilliantly seconded by a capable artists with whom her managers, Messrs. Wagenhals and Kemper have surrounded her. The triumph achieved by this very entertaining drama in New York where it has been played for 250 nights, will insure for Miss Blair the most profitable tour she has yet made.

Latest From Kingston.

Later reports from the earthquake at Kingston, Jamaica, indicated that situation is decidedly more serious than was indicated by the meager dispatches sent out on Tuesday. The estimates of dead are now in the neighborhood of 1,000. The devastation would appear to have been confined to the vicinity of Kingston, one dispatch gives ten miles as the radius of the damage. The rest of the island including Port Antonio, does not seem to have suffered severely.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tea spoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address: F. J. ## The Endless Procession.

A myriad of men are born. They labor and sweat and struggle for bread; they squabble and scold and fight; they scramble for little mean advantages over each other; age creeps upon them; infirmities follow; shame and humiliations bring down their pride and their families; those they love are taken from them, and the joy of life is turned to aching grief. The burden of pain, care, misery, grows heavier year by year; at length ambition is dead, pride is dead; vanity is dead; longing for release is in their place. It comes at last—the only unpoisoned gift earth ever had for them—and they vanish from a world where they were of no consequence; where they achieved nothing; where they were a mistake and a failure and a foolishness. There they have left no sign that they have existed—a world which will lament them 1 day and forget them forever. Then another myriad takes their place, and copies all they did, and goes along the same profitless road, and vanishes as they vanished—to make room for another, and another, and a million other myriads, to follow the same arid path through the same desert and accomplish what the first myriad and all the myriads that came after it accomplished—nothing.—From Mark Twain's Autobiography in North American Review.

Origin of the Balloon.

The word balloon means "a large ball." To Montgolfier of Annonay, France, the invention of the balloon is credited. It is said that he was led to turn his attention to balloon making from the following incident: A French andress, wishing to dry a petticoat quickly, placed it on a basket work frame over a stove. To prevent the seat from escaping by the opening at the top of the petticoat she drew the belt strings closely together and tied them. Gradually the garment dried and became lighter, and as the stove continued to give out heat and rarefy the air concentrated under the basket work frame the petticoat began to move and finally rose in the air. This astonished the laundress that she ran to her neighbors and asked them to come and witness the strange sight. Montgolfier was among those that came in. The petticoat suspended in midair suggested greater things to him, and he returned home with "something to think about." He at once began studying works on different kinds of atmosphere, and the invention of the balloon was the result.

No Excuses Accepted.

French officials are said to be particularly strict in their discipline of tourists. A lately returned traveler tells several more or less apocryphal stories to illustrate the state of affairs. An American lost his footing, slipped down an embankment and fell into a small, shallow pond. As he scrambled, tripping, up the embankment to the footpath he was confronted by an arm of the law.

"Your name? Your address?" demanded this uncompromising person, notebook in hand.

"But I fell," began the astonished American. "I only—"

The man waved his arm. "It is forbidden to bathe in this lake," he said firmly. "I am not here to listen to extenuating circumstances."

A Quotation.

A correspondent wrote to a newspaper to ask the author of this couplet: How much the fool who has been sent to Rome. Excels the fool who has been kept at home!

He had barely written when he answered his own query, having found the source of the lines and how he had misquoted them. They are from Cowper's "Progress of Error" and read:

How much a dunce that hath been sent to Rome. Excels a dunce that hath been kept at home!

We are not sure but that, as is frequently the case with misquotations, the popular version is better than the poet's.—New York Tribune.

Brains of Great Men.

Brains of great men vary very much. It is found that men of encyclopedic mind have large and heavy brains. Gladstone had to wear a very big hat with an enormous bed of gray matter and numerous convolutions. On the other hand, men whose genius is concentrated upon one line of thought are of small brain and, consequently have small heads. Newton, Byron and Cromwell were in this class.—Kansas City Journal.

Latchkey as a Source of Trouble.

Ever since some mechanically inclined person, with an almost diabolical instinct for making mischief, invented a form of spring lock which can be opened on the inside by a knob and on the outside only by a key there has been trouble. The latchkey from the first has been a domestic storm center. It has divided family circles and even broken up homes.—London Telegraph.

The Best.

There is a legend, says an English writer, to the effect that after Lord Stanley came into the house of peers a lady somewhat indiscreetly asked Lord Brougham at a dinner party who was the best speaker in the house of lords and that Lord Brougham promptly and emphatically answered, "Lord Stanley, madam, is the second best."

Hasty Conclusion.

Tommy paused a moment in the work of demolition. "This is angel cake, all right," he said. "How do you know?" asked Johnny. "I've found a feather in it."—Chicago Tribune.

There are about 185 inhabited British Isles, of which Scotland claims over 100.

HAVING A GOOD CRY

By DONALD ALLEN

Copyright, 1906, by Ruby Douglas.

Pretty Viola Craydon had come down to visit her aunt in her country home, and for a week she had been supremely happy. There were chickens and ducks and geese, there were guinea hens and doves and rabbits, there were innocent lambskins and frolicking calves, and she had tried to milk a cow, fallen off a fence and churned two pounds of butter. But for Arthur Tyson this dream of bliss might have continued another week, and pretty Viola might have climbed to the roof of the wagon shed, sold paper rags to a tin peddler and gone blackberrying down in the meadow as a continuance of her romantic adventures.

Arthur Tyson had not only fallen in love with her, but he was intending to ask for her hand. He hadn't published his intentions in any of the journals or told the country postmistress what was in his mind, but Miss Viola had a line on him. You can't fool a girl about such things. The man who is courting her may talk about the joys of bachelor life and pretend to be a cynic on affairs of sentiment, but she can read him like a book. When Arthur had said that he would arrive at Viola's aunt's on the 14th—running down in his auto in the forenoon and running back to the city again in the evening—there was a look in his eyes that said there would be something doing.

The 14th came, and then things began to happen. A letter arrived from Arthur to say that his grandmother wanted him to hurry to her dying bedside; a big bumblebee came droning along, even as Viola was reading the letter while seated on the veranda, and stung her on the bare arm; a windmill man called on business and tried to flirt with her; she was chased out of the barnyard by a calf and chased back again by a turkey gobbler; the dog got hold of her cute summer hat and chewed it up, and she fell down cellar while going after preserves and landed on top of the family cat.

Several other vexatious things occurred between the morning of the 14th and noon of the next day, and an hour after dinner Miss Viola made up her mind to have a good cry. If she cried in the house her aunt, who was a sharp eyed old lady, would see her tears and ask questions; if she went to the barn to cry among the cackling hens and new mown hay, the hired man would come stumbling in; if she hid away behind the grape arbor or the currant bushes, there were bugs to crawl down her back as soon as she was off her guard.

Down across the meadow and half a mile from the house there was a small grove, and the disconsolate girl finally made up her mind that her tears of sorrow should be shed around the roots of those trees. Her manner of dodging her aunt and getting out of the house and down to the grove would have been called "making a sneak" by some, but a pretty girl who is looking for a crying place should not be judged too harshly.

She found the grove a capital place for her business. There were shade and quietness and the whispering of the summer breeze through the leaves, and Miss Viola went at it and let the tears fall, her chin quiver and her sobs frighten away the lone chickadee that was taking a daytime nap on a branch above her head.

Mr. Tyson hastened to the bedside of his dying grandmother, thinking that it would be a whole week before she would die and be buried and the will mentioning him as sole heir read. Upon his arrival a glad surprise awaited him. It was a case of bilious colic only, caused by eating too heartily of corned beef and cabbage at the advanced age of eighty-three.

He would have hastened away at once, but the grandmother objected. She had a story to tell—a story of how that colic grasped and gripped her and lasted her ten hours before the doctor could bring relief. It took her all day to finish the story, and then it took her nephew several hours in addition to convince her that if he did not hasten back to town the whole United States would turn turtle.

He made things hum when he got started, but it was midafternoon of the 15th when his auto arrived within cannon shot of the farmhouse which sheltered the girl he meant to make his wife and of the grove wherein a sad eyed maiden sat and wept—that is, she wasn't sitting there just then. She had other business on hand.

At 1 o'clock that afternoon at the railroad station, two miles away, a train bearing 100 lunatics on their way to a newly completed asylum had been shunted on to the side track to let the express pass. They were given refreshments, and all of a sudden, while the guards were about their hospitable work and their vigilance relaxed, a dozen of the unfortunate people, men and women, escaped from the cars and scattered over the country.

Of course they were instantly pursued, but three or four of them got a long start. Guards and farmers and farmers' boys and farmers' dogs took up the pursuit with avidity.

As Miss Viola sat in her grove and sobbed and wept and threw sticks at the bugs crawling about she was startled by whoops and yells and shouts. She brushed away her tears and repressed her sobs and stepped out of the shelter of the grove to see what was up.

She had heard of a rabbit being routed out of a wood pile and a whole country joining in the chase, and it flashed cross her mind that this was an occurrence of the sort. She was soon undeceived. Three men, four boys and two dogs came running toward her, and as she was seen there were cries of:

"There is one of them! Come on, boys! Head her off and don't let her get away!"

Men and boys and dogs bore down on the helpless maiden, and almost before she could scream she found herself grasped by both arms and being hurried along. She had been boosted over a fence and hustled through a thistle patch before she could gather her wits. Then she began to struggle and protest. It was useless to struggle, and the men and boys laughed at her protestations. When fright made her weak and she sank down one of the men took her on and kept business moving. Before reaching the station and the train they were met by one of the guards. The girl revived sufficiently to protest anew, but he answered her:

"Of course she's one of 'em, and a cute wench she is! This is the third time in two years she has escaped us. Bring her along!"

Miss Viola was in a distressful condition when the station was at length reached. Her captors were met by shouting men and barking dogs and wails and screams from the two carloads of lunatics, and just then an auto came whooping up and had to pause for the crowd to clear the street. It is useless to conceal the fact that it was driven by Arthur Tyson.

"What's the matter?" he asked of an excited farmer as the machine came to a halt.

"More fun than I've seen in twenty years," was the answer. "Those two cars are full of crazy folks. About a dozen got away, and we've been chasing 'em down. They've just got the last one."

Arthur stood up to look over the crowd. A woman had apparently fainted away, and two or three men were about to pick her up and carry her across to the train. As her shoulders were lifted up he caught sight of her face, and next instant things were happening again.

He sprang down into the crowd, elbowed men and kicked dogs right and left, and in a moment was beside the woman. The woman's hair was down and her face covered with dust and grime and her dress torn from neck to shoulder, but love makes no mistakes in such matters.

The young man had knocked down two men and had the girl on his arm before he asked for explanations. Before they were tendered he had to lay his burden down and perform further pugilistic feats, but in due time the guards, the farmers, the farmers' boys and the farmers' dogs admitted that a mistake had been made.

When the auto resumed its journey the girl was a passenger. She had come to and realized that she was not being taken off to an insane asylum.

It was some hours later, when the harvest moon was shining and the whippoorwills were singing, that she told her story, and, though her aunt was sitting right beside her and holding her hand and calling her "poor dear," the story had only been finished when Arthur Tyson leaned forward and kissed her and said that he proposed to see from that time on that she had the legal and moral right to weep in any grove she wanted to without being hustled around the country as an escaped lunatic. The proposal hadn't come in just the romantic form expected, but Miss Viola was a girl of sense and realized that when exigencies arise the machinery of romance may be thrown out of gear.

A Long Time.

In the service of a certain committee of the senate, the chairman of which is a southern senator, is a certain capable young stenographer and typewriter, in addition to the clerk of the committee. One day the chairman, missing the very capable stenographer, inquired of the clerk where he was.

"He is not here today, sir," responded the clerk. "His father is dead."

Some days later the chairman again asked for the missing employee, only to receive the same reply from the clerk:

"He is not here today, sir. His father is dead."

The chairman said nothing, but looked very interested. A full week there after the head of the committee for the third time inquired as to the whereabouts of the stenographer. In reply the clerk began the usual announcement:

"He is not here today, sir. His—"

"Will you kindly advise me," interrupted the chairman, with alarming suavity, "whether that young man intends to stay away from his duties all the time his father is dead?"—Harper's Weekly.

Pet Dog Customers.

"Among my steadiest customers are the pet animals of the street and block," remarked the delicatessen man as he sliced down 10 cents' worth of rare roast beef ordered by the woman with a dog in her arms. "They include both dogs and cats belonging to the furnished roomers of the neighborhood. The master and mistress take their meals at neighboring boarding houses, so that there are no table scraps and the piece de resistance for Fido or Tommy is sought at the delicatessen."

"Roast beef is a favorite viand. The canned fish in ten cent tins lasts puffy several days, and I have many calls for condensed cream for the same purpose. One patron always stops in passing to buy a pound of a certain kind of crackers to which, she says, her French poodle is specially devoted. Ox tail and other thick soups are used to pour over bread in lieu of gravy. The owners seem to develop decided ingenuity in varying the pet's diet and altering its menu."—New York Press.

"DO IT TO-DAY!"

"And to think that ten months ago I looked like this! I owe it to German Syrup."

"The time-worn injunction, 'Never put off 'til to-morrow what you can do to-day,' is now generally presented in this form: 'Do it to-day!' That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it TO-DAY—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.
